Fund Manager's Report

The benchmark MSCI Zhonghua Index advanced by 4.1% in this Oct, and the fund's NAV went up by 3.8%. Including the dividend payment of HK$ 4.3 on May 28th, the NAV of the fund increased by 10.6% year to date, which outperformed the benchmark index by 1.8 percent points. Mainly affected by the easing of Sino-US trade disputes and rising market risk appetite, the global stock market advanced in Oct, with Hang Seng Index, Shanghai Shenzhen CSI 300 Index and S&P 500 Index increased by 3.1%, 1.9% and 2.0% respectively in HKD. At the sector level of MSCI Zhonghua Index, Health Care, Information Technology, Consumer Staples and Real Estate gained and outperformed, while Energy, Consumer Discretionary and Materials recorded losses and underperformed.

Market Outlook

Sino-US trade disputes are the biggest uncertainty of the current economy and market. China is expected to guard against the potential double dip in economy brought by trade disputes. If the trade environment or China macroeconomics deteriorates, flexible fiscal and monetary policies including further tax cuts and monetary easing might alleviate the pressure to some extent. Despite of current trade and economic uncertainties, we are still optimistic about the long-term growth prospects of Chinese economy. We regard current valuation is attractive and has already factored in much negative factors. We have raised stock positions and will maintain major positions on quality stocks and high-yield plays. We will focus on investment opportunities in China Consumers, Services and China Financials, and pay attention to the trading opportunities in Information Technology, Aviation, Auto and China Brokerage sectors. We will avoid HK Property and HK Consumers due to the uncertainties of HK political incidence.
