Fund Manager's Report

Market Review

The fund's NAV went up by 1.8% in this April, while the benchmark MSCI Zhonghua Index rose by 1.9% in the same month. The fund advanced by 17.0% year to date, which lagged behind the benchmark index by 2.5 percent points. Mainly due to better-than-expected Chinese economic data and rising market risk appetite, global stock market continued to advance in April, with S&P 500 Index, Hang Seng Index and Shanghai Shenzhen CSI 300 Index rose by 3.9%, 2.2% and 0.7% respectively in April. At the sector level, Communication Services, Consumer Staple and Information Technology outperformed, while Energy, Real Estate, Utilities and Industrials underperformed.

Market Outlook

The VAT cut and the social security contribution fee reduction as well as further inclusion of China A shares and Chinese bonds into global indices would favor the HK equity market. However, The United States and China intensified their trade disputes as both sides failed to reach trade deal and declared to further hike tariffs on each other, which raised market concerns and caused rising risk aversion. We lowered equity position at the end of April. We will probably maintain a relatively low equity position to against current unclear trade disputes. We have moderately improved the defensiveness of the portfolio and will maintain main position on quality stocks. We will focus investment opportunities in Utilities, Consumer, and China Financials.
