Fund Manager's Report
Market Review

The fund's NAV increased by 2.92% in May and gained 7.02% year to date. Global equities returned to a more positive tone in May and global vaccination progress is accelerating. Affected by declining interest rate and appreciation of RMB dollar, China equity market outperformed other markets in Asia region. In Hong Kong dollars, CSI 300 Index went up by 5.7% while Hang Seng Index and S&P 500 Index increased by 1.49% and 0.48% respectively in May. As to sectors in Hang Seng Index, Information Technology, Consumer Staples, Utilities and Energy sectors rebounded significantly while Consumer Discretionary and Communication Services performed with negative return.

Market Outlook

China PMI was basically in line with expectation in May, indicating a good economy recovery trend. The market will keep focusing on inflation, QE tapering, vaccination progress and the implementation of fiscal stimulus. The market expects that the Fed may start to consider monetary policy normalization, which will increase the concern over market bubbles. Thus, the stock market may experience a period of high volatility again. Going forward, we will keep balanced allocation between growth stocks and value stocks. We still favor on quality new economy leaders with reasonable valuation and focus on domestic demand-driven stocks (consumption, biotech, hardware, auto sector) with strong earnings visibility as well as new energy sector.
